CALL FOR PAPERS- JANUARY 2023

JMST invites research papers across all areas of maritime sciences and technology and allied disciplines.

JMST is an open-access, peer-reviewed multidisciplinary journal published in English. JMST publishes original research papers, review articles and letters and rapid or short communications throughout all disciplines of maritime science. This includes marine engineering, navigation/nautical science, maritime education and training, maritime law and insurance, maritime administration, shipping and logistics management, port operations and enterprises, maritime safety and security, marine environment and pollution, ship design and construction, offshore activities (oil and gas; integrated maritime operations), ocean renewable energies, global warming, climate change and adaptation, and other maritime studies.

Researchers, academicians, social workers, policymakers, and other stakeholders are invited to submit original research papers on a variety of scientific research topics in the upcoming Call for Papers–Volume 1, Issue 1, January 2023. Please read the guidance to authors before submitting: <https://journal.dmi.ac.tz/index.php/1DMI1/3>.

You can submit papers online by tapping on the following link;
